

Charles E. Krausche

Associate

Mr. Krausche joined our firm in 2001. Prior to joining our firm, Mr. Krausche clerked for an 11th Judicial Circuit Court of Florida judge, where he researched legal issues for the criminal court bench and civil appellate panel. In addition, Mr. Krausche worked with the felony division of the Dade County Public Defender's Office, where he represented indigent clients, conducted numerous depositions and court appearances, motion arguments and felony jury trials.

Mr. Krausche also worked with the Florida law firm of Freidin & Brown, LLP, concentrating on tort litigation, personal injury, property damage and nursing home care issues. Subsequently, Mr. Krausche went on to work with the New Jersey civil litigation firm of Frohling Hudak & Pellegrino, where he represented clients involving property damage, catastrophic fires and tort claims.

Since joining our firm, Mr. Krausche's practice has focused primarily on civil and commercial litigation, landlord-tenant, and tort- and real property-related matters. Mr. Krausche represents both landlords and tenants in Housing and Supreme Courts, in the appellate courts, and in the state and city housing agencies and administrative tribunals. Among Mr. Krausche's landlord clients are not-for-profit supportive housing providers and low-income housing cooperatives, as well as small and large private owners. Among Mr. Krausche's tenant clients are both tenants associations and individual tenants.
